The 2023 show will simply be called “Medtrade” and will not include additional modifiers that deal with regions or seasons. The three-day show is designed to pack a lot of information and products into a cozy timeframe.

“Time is money and we believe three days offer tremendous value for people who are looking to get out of the office, but not for too long,” said York Schwab, show director. “SmartSaver rates amount to an amazing deal, but prospective attendees need to act fairly fast to take advantage.”
